

ONE CENT SALE

Three Days Only---Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Nov. 2, 3, 4, 1916

Probably our last 1c Sale on account of the sharp advances on all items

What is a One Cent Sale?

It is a sale where you buy an item at the regular price--then another item of the same kind for 1c. As an illustration: The standard price of Rexall Tooth Paste is 25c. You buy a tube at this price, and by paying 1c more or 28c, you get two tubes. Every article in this sale is a high-class standard piece of merchandise, just the same as we sell you every day at regular prices, and have sold you for years. Buy as much as you want. No goods knowingly sold to dealers.

A New Way of Advertising

This sale was developed by the Rexall Company as an advertising plan. Rather than spend large sums of money in other ways to convince you of the merit of these goods, they are spending it on this sale in permitting us to sell you a full size package of high standard merchandise for 1c. It costs money to get new customers, and the loss taken on this sale will be well spent if the goods please you.

EXPERIMENTS SHOW LEADING MISSOURI CORN VARIETIES

University Station Calls Commercial White Best Yielder.

The Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station of the University of Missouri at Columbia has completed a series of variety tests of corn in various parts of the state and upon different types of soil, in view of determining the leading varieties. The experiments show that the leading varieties of white corn are: Commercial White, Boone County White, Johnson County White, and St. Charles Yellow. The leading varieties of yellow corn are Reid's Yellow Dent, Leaming, Cartner and St. Charles Yellow.

From the tests in nine different parts of the state and upon different types of soil, it was found that Commercial White is the highest yielder in eight out of nine; Boone County White takes second place in seven out of nine and Reid's Yellow Dent is second in two out of nine. The Commercial White has proved to be the best yielder of all varieties, white or yellow, throughout the state. Reid's Yellow Dent and St. Charles Yellow are the leading varieties of yellow corn.

Wheat Higher Than Ever.

Four to five cents more was added to the phenomenal prices of wheat in the early dealings Saturday morning, the December quotation rising to $1.85 in Kansas City and $1.90 in Chicago. The rise was due to continued foreign buying and moderate receipts.

Corn was carried up about a cent with wheat, the December price reaching 87 5/8 cents in Kansas City and 90 1/8 cents in Chicago, about 1 1/2 cents under the previous high levels reached this week. The advance in corn was not maintained.

Hughes Men Offer Only Even Money.

New York, Oct. 28.—Much Wilson money made its appearance at the betting centers today, and Hughes supporters offered only even money.

The largest wager yet reported on these terms was one of $25,000 even, the Wilson stakes being put up by a mining man from Goldfield, Nev., whose political faith is zealously Democratic.

Fred Schumm, in Brooklyn, placed $12,000 on Wilson at even money.

Doing the Work.

W. T. Nanney, Noel, Mo., writes, "Your B. A. Thomas' Hog Powder is doing the work down in this part of the world. It proved to be what we needed to prevent and cure hog cholera and expel worms."

C. C. Rhoades Pharmacy, 3-1m O. K. M. Butler, Mo.

The next union service of the New Hope church will be held Sunday evening at 8 o'clock Nov. 12, 1916.

The following program on the "Resurrection," will be given: Reading of lesson text by leader, 1st Cor. 15:1-20.

"When was Jesus raised and under what circumstances," Perry Osborne, John 20:1-10.

"Who was in doubt," Ruby Berry, John 20:24-25.

Prayer, after reading Psalms, 142.

Song. "What became of the Lord after His resurrection," Belle Money, Acts 1:3-10-11.

Talk by J. C. Berry on "Why is this a wonderful doctrine?" "What is given as a basis for our R," Hazel Gish, 1st Cor. 15:16-25.

"Who are mentioned in the 1st resurrection," Kate Strein, Rev. 20:4-5-6.

Song. Questions on the lesson, Mrs. Herman.

"Was the Body of Jesus Safely Guarded? Why?" John McKisick, Matt. 27:62-66.

Talk on subject, Earl Osborne. "What is the nature of the resurrection?" Connie Craven, 1st Cor. 15:35-58.

Song. "What is said of those that sleep in Jesus," Clarence Hovey, 1st Thess. 4, 13-18.

Business. Report of Archie meeting by delegates.

Lives Lost in a Hospital Fire.

Farnham, Que., Oct. 26.—At 1 o'clock today it was reported that at least 27 lives had been lost in the fire which had destroyed the Roman Catholic Hospital, St. Elizabeth Hall and stables during the night.

Twenty persons were injured in jumping from the upper stories, about a dozen of them children. The fact that survivors are scattered in homes all over the town makes the work of compiling a list of missing difficult.

When the fire broke out there were 318 persons in the building, the majority of them women. They were saved by heroic work on the part of the firemen and citizens.

SOME HOT SHOT

FOR MR. SCHUPP

Col. James N. Sharp Refutes Charges Made by Anti-Saloon Agent.

Butler, Mo., Oct. 31, 1916.

Editor Democrat:—In reply to the unjust charge that is being circulated against me in our county, to the effect that my actions in opposing some pretended dry measures in the last Legislature, were tantamount to a betrayal of the dry element of the State, I will say by way of a plain statement of fact that an attempt was made by some so-called "dry" leaders of the State to foist a law upon the citizens thereof by resorting to what I, in open session, on the floor of the House characterized as a base subterfuge and a lie, in order that it, the said law, might escape the supreme test, (the righteous, the undisputed, the supreme right of the people to pass upon its desirability) would make inevitable—by declaring that the "peace, health and safety of the citizens of the State were in such imminent peril of insurrection, epidemic and invasion as to be in "immediate necessity" for preservation to the extent as to preclude the possibility of waiting until the test could be put upon it by the people's vote.

This was their given excuse for such an unheard of proposition, and it was then and there I denounced it in open session as a base subterfuge and a lie, and charged also that they knew, and that I knew, and that every man in the State knew that the real reason for their perfidious attempt was that they were afraid for the people to pass on it, and that they did not propose to abide by the basic principle of Americanism of letting the "majority rule" settle the matter.

Now the right of the citizens of Missouri to pass upon all such laws enacted by the Legislature is guaranteed and established to them in the Constitution of the State, an instrument that can be made or unmade only by the people themselves voting as a whole—the legislature having no say in the making of it whatever, but to the contrary, each member thereof is compelled to take an oath that he will uphold and keep it inviolate, hence I was under oath to keep sacred and inviolate this very right which they were openly trying to defy, and when the gentleman who, if I am correctly informed, was the author of the scheme to evade and defy this right saw that his men in the House could not handle me to their advantage, he proceeded to take me in hand personally.

He said, "Mr. Sharp, you have not been voting to suit me." I said "No, I guess not." He then said, "Now Mr. Sharp, I want you to come across and vote for the next Bill that comes up." I said, "Take off your subterfuge and I'll vote for it." His answer was, "I will not do it," and then and there, this great Prohibition (?) King of Missouri, the Rev. W. C. Schupp, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Missouri, stooped to the disreputable act of trying to "hold me up" and force me to do his bidding by saying that I would have to do it, that he had the power to say I could not come back to that Legislature and that he would exercise it if I did not vote for his scheme. I replied to him that if he wished to insult me by approaching me in such a way, and intimating that the people of Bates County did not have intelligence enough to attend to their own affairs, for him to come on, and so far as I was concerned the sooner the better.

And now after waiting nearly two years to put his finger over on my people as though they were only a button on a political checker-board and moving them around as his sweet will might dictate, he comes, at the last hour, and in keeping with his code of the rules that govern in an affair of honor and decency and assumes authority over them by telling them in a letter boldly published in a newspaper of this county that I "befriended the Liquor interests at every turn in the last legislature," and that I should be defeated, and that, without giving them one single act of mine to justify him in making such a statement, and I willingly leave it to the sense of honor and fairness with which my fellow-citizens are imbued to make up their minds as to where justice should be rendered in this whole matter. I further submit to them as to whether or not there is one single bit of evidence in all the criticism to which I have been subjected that would tend to show that I was ever disloyal to them in any single instance, but that from every angle I have stood up for them and their rights and their intelligence and that the unjust abuse I have drawn down upon myself has been prompted solely because of my loyalty to them.

I know to whom I owe loyalty, and it standing up for them and refusing to yield to some "click" or set of men, that would rob them of their property or their rights by peremptorily and illegally defying their rights to be consulted about such matters I shall myself at least feel that I have done my duty. In conclusion, I frankly admit that I am a poor man and that I have not been a "howling" success in the way of making money, yet I am not an Anarchist nor a Mormon, nor have I ever affiliated with or subscribed to the doctrines under any guise, of any such a sect that has brought down on itself the just contempt of every loyal American citizen on account of its open and notorious persistence in trying to set at defiance the laws of my country.

I love my country, I love her flag, I love her laws, and whenever duty puts me in a position to stand for them and to see that respect is rendered to them, not by one man, but by all alike,—I am going to do it, for I am not "too proud to fight" nor will I seriously complain at my having to dance bare-footed—out in the snow while some hired mercenary, or would-be assassin holds a pistol to my head, provided that in so doing I am paying the penalty of standing between my constituents and some attempted outrage on their property and their rights.

Hoping that every true and loyal hearted Bates countian who believes in doing things fairly and in demanding a strict observance of our rights by all alike will resent the questionable methods that have been practiced by those whose schemes I have defeated, will stand by me on election day and vindicate my efforts to rightly serve my people, I beg to remain.

Your obedient servant,

JAS. N. SHARP.

Didn't Want Women's Millionaire Special.

Some time ago when the national republican committee announced that the "millionaire special" carrying the wives of America's money kings who have been traveling de luxe from coast to coast in the interest of Charles Hughes, the republican nominee for president, would stop in St. Louis, the state republican committee at once got busy and the schedule was changed.

The republican committee wasn't going to take a chance on the "influence" of Alice Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of the Terrible Teddy; Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, wife of the Wall street financier; Mrs. Phoebe Hearst, millionaire mother of the dodging William Randolph; Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt—(introduction unnecessary)—Mrs. Julius Rosenwald, wife of the millionaire mail order king of Chicago; Mrs. John Hays Hammond and others of the ultra-wealthy and ultra-fashionable rulers of America.

So the schedule was changed, hurriedly, but quietly, and St. Louis did not get a glimpse of the train.

The "millionaires' special," financed by wives of "Interests" kings, left New York City October 2. Its trip to the Pacific coast proved a frost. Women of the Central and Western States did not take kindly to the attempt of the "millionaires" to tell them how to vote. At many places "Wilson women" met the train, and the trip as a whole has not only been a "frost" but unusually stormy.

Watch the Negro Vote.

Washington, Oct. 28.—More than ten thousand men, mostly negroes, are said to have gone from Florida alone to Northern points, particularly Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, to take employment offered them in the last two or three months. The Department of Justice has been informed. Other states, including Virginia, the Carolinas and Alabama, have contributed to the exodus. All such movements are being investigated by the department to guard against election frauds or other violations of law.

Officials are disposed to believe that in most cases the movement has nothing to do with the elections and is merely a development in the unusual industrial conditions with larger wages luring negroes from normal Southern employment. Reports to the department tend to indicate the railroads, confronted with unprecedented traffic, are bringing out most of these men.

Literary Program.

There will be a debate and literary program Friday night, Nov. 3, at Tripp school house. Question, "Resolved, that Bates County Should Have a Farm Advisor." Everybody welcome.
